TEACHING SURGERONS’ HANDS TO HEAL-Evren E. Fraley, MD 2014-06-23 Nineteen sixty-nine to nineteen ninety three: what a time of change, development and innovation in Medicine. Often not appreciated are the many advances coming directly or indirectly from the University of Minnesota Medical School, the main setting for “Teaching Surgeon’s Hands to Heal” by Dr Evren Fraley MD. Dr Christian Barnard had recently performed the first human heart transplant in South Africa, yet the basis for this magnificent achievement was the training and experience he had in Minnesota, under the great open-heart surgery pioneer Dr Walt Lillehei. This was the background that the young, relatively inexperienced Dr Fraley had, when given the opportunity to develop a world class Department of Urologic Surgery in 1969. With his intense personal belief as a “Builder of People” Dr Fraley accepted the challenge with drive, determination and his own inimitable energy and wit - overcoming numerous difficulties along the way. Set in an academic research and training hospital the clinical details not only of the development of the training program, but rather how it produced so many luminaries in the field, who then followed his tradition of building leaders and innovators. This book highlights the importance of academic centers to the future of American and world medicine, as well as mankind in general. Indeed, under Dr Fraley, there was a paradigm shift from enormous painful surgical incisions to key-hole surgery, the field of Endourology (a term coined by Dr Fraley). Thus Endourology is now an integral part of virtually all major urological meetings around the world.

The results of a U.S. survey announced during the 15th annual meeting of the American Urological Association (AUA) indicated that a large percentage of urologists treating men with prostate cancer are not aware that their patients are experiencing such disturbing side effects as hot flashes, altered bowel habits, or weight changes from various cancer treatments.
